

The cooler way

A free walking app for hot cities. It finds the street that stays in the shade.

— The problem

The shortest walk is often the hottest.

Maps send you the shortest way. On a hot European street at 14:00, that can mean full sun, steep hills, and no relief.

🔥 Heating up

— Why now

Four pressures, one street.

Hotter summers

Strong heat stress days more than doubled.

66

days of strong heat stress, summer 2024. Usual: 29.

Copernicus, SOTC 2024

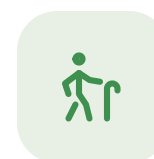

Heat costs lives

Heat is a health risk, not only discomfort.

62,775

estimated heat-related deaths in Europe in 2024, 32 countries

Peer-reviewed estimate

An older Europe

Heat-aware, lower effort walks matter more.

22%

of EU residents are 65 or older. More than 1 in 5.

Eurostat, 1 January 2025

Summer tourism

Almost a third of EU tourist nights fall in July and August.

31%

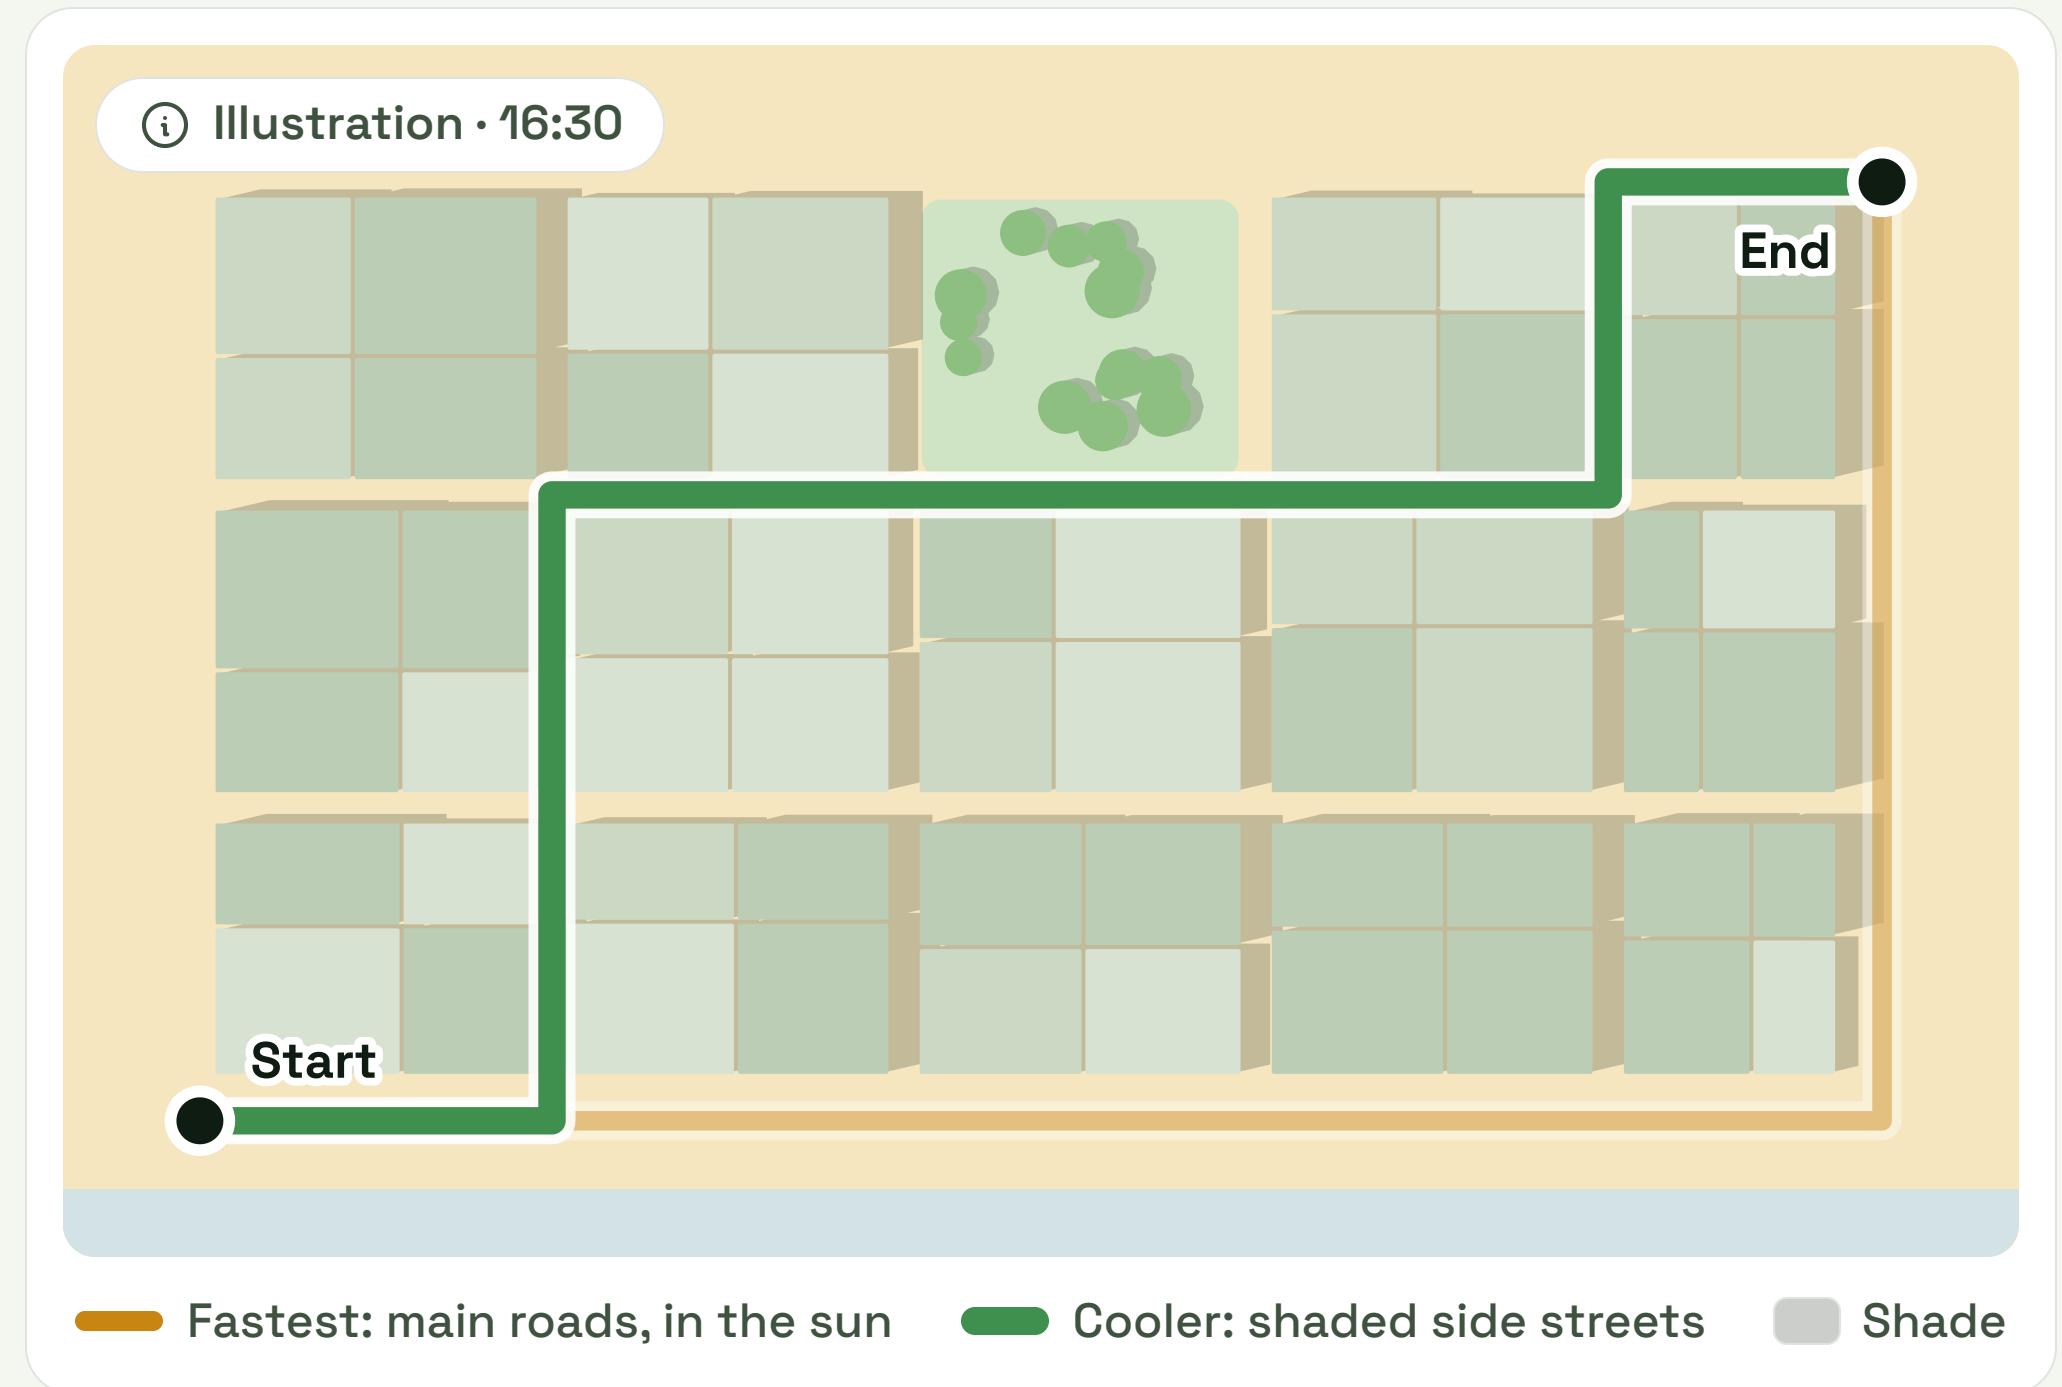

of EU tourism nights were in July and August 2024

Eurostat

— The solution

GreenRah picks the cooler street.

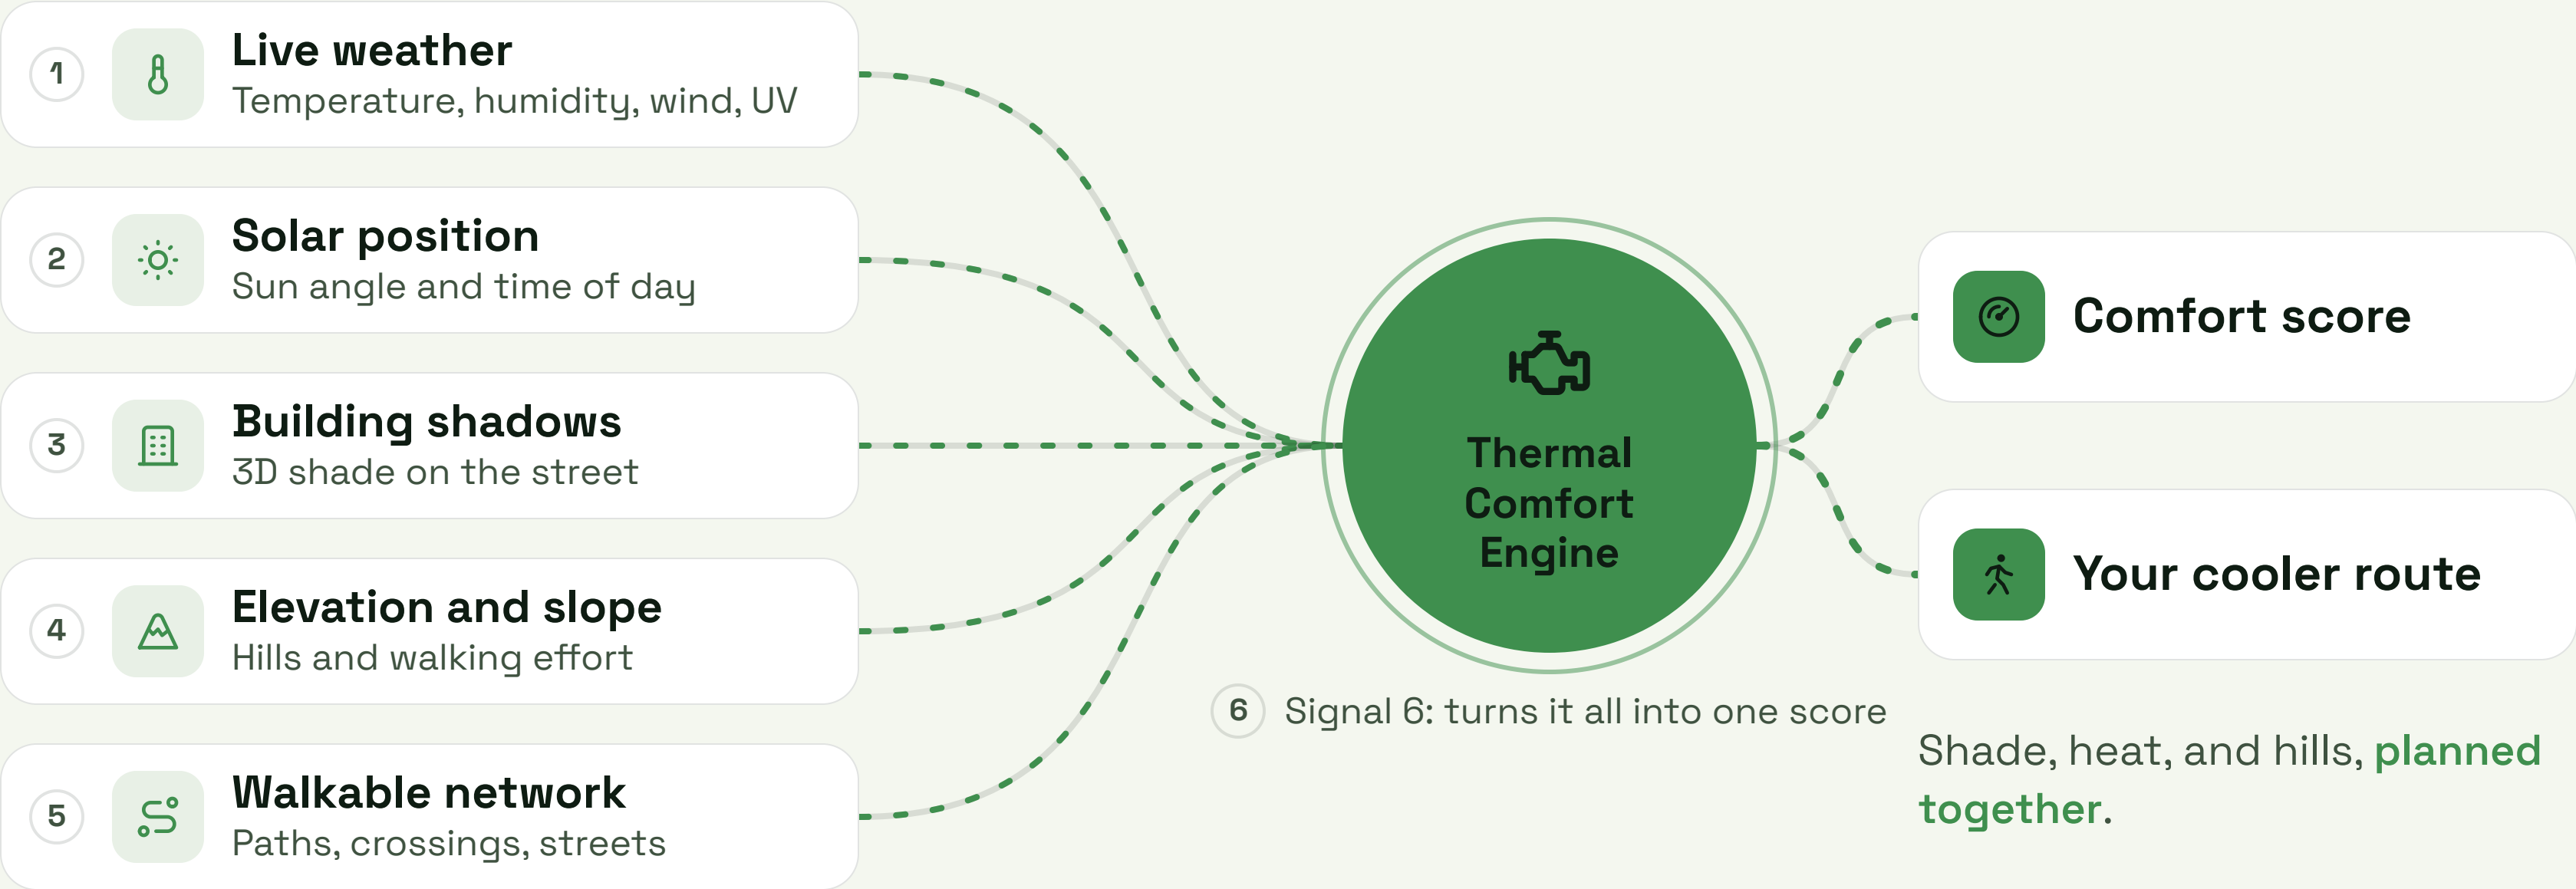

Same start, same end. GreenRah compares walks and recommends the one with the lowest predicted heat stress.

— How it works

The Thermal Comfort Engine

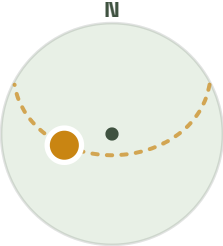

Six live signals. One comfort score. One route.

— Heat Smart

Shade moves. So does your route.

The cooler street at 09:00 is not the cooler street at 16:30. GreenRah plans for the hour you walk.

— Accessible

A gentler way, still in the shade.

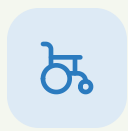

Stairs and steep hills drop out. A milder path appears, still with shade. For seniors, strollers, and tired legs.

— For cities and partners

See where shade is missing.

A separate city view, already running for Lisbon. It turns anonymous walks into street level evidence.

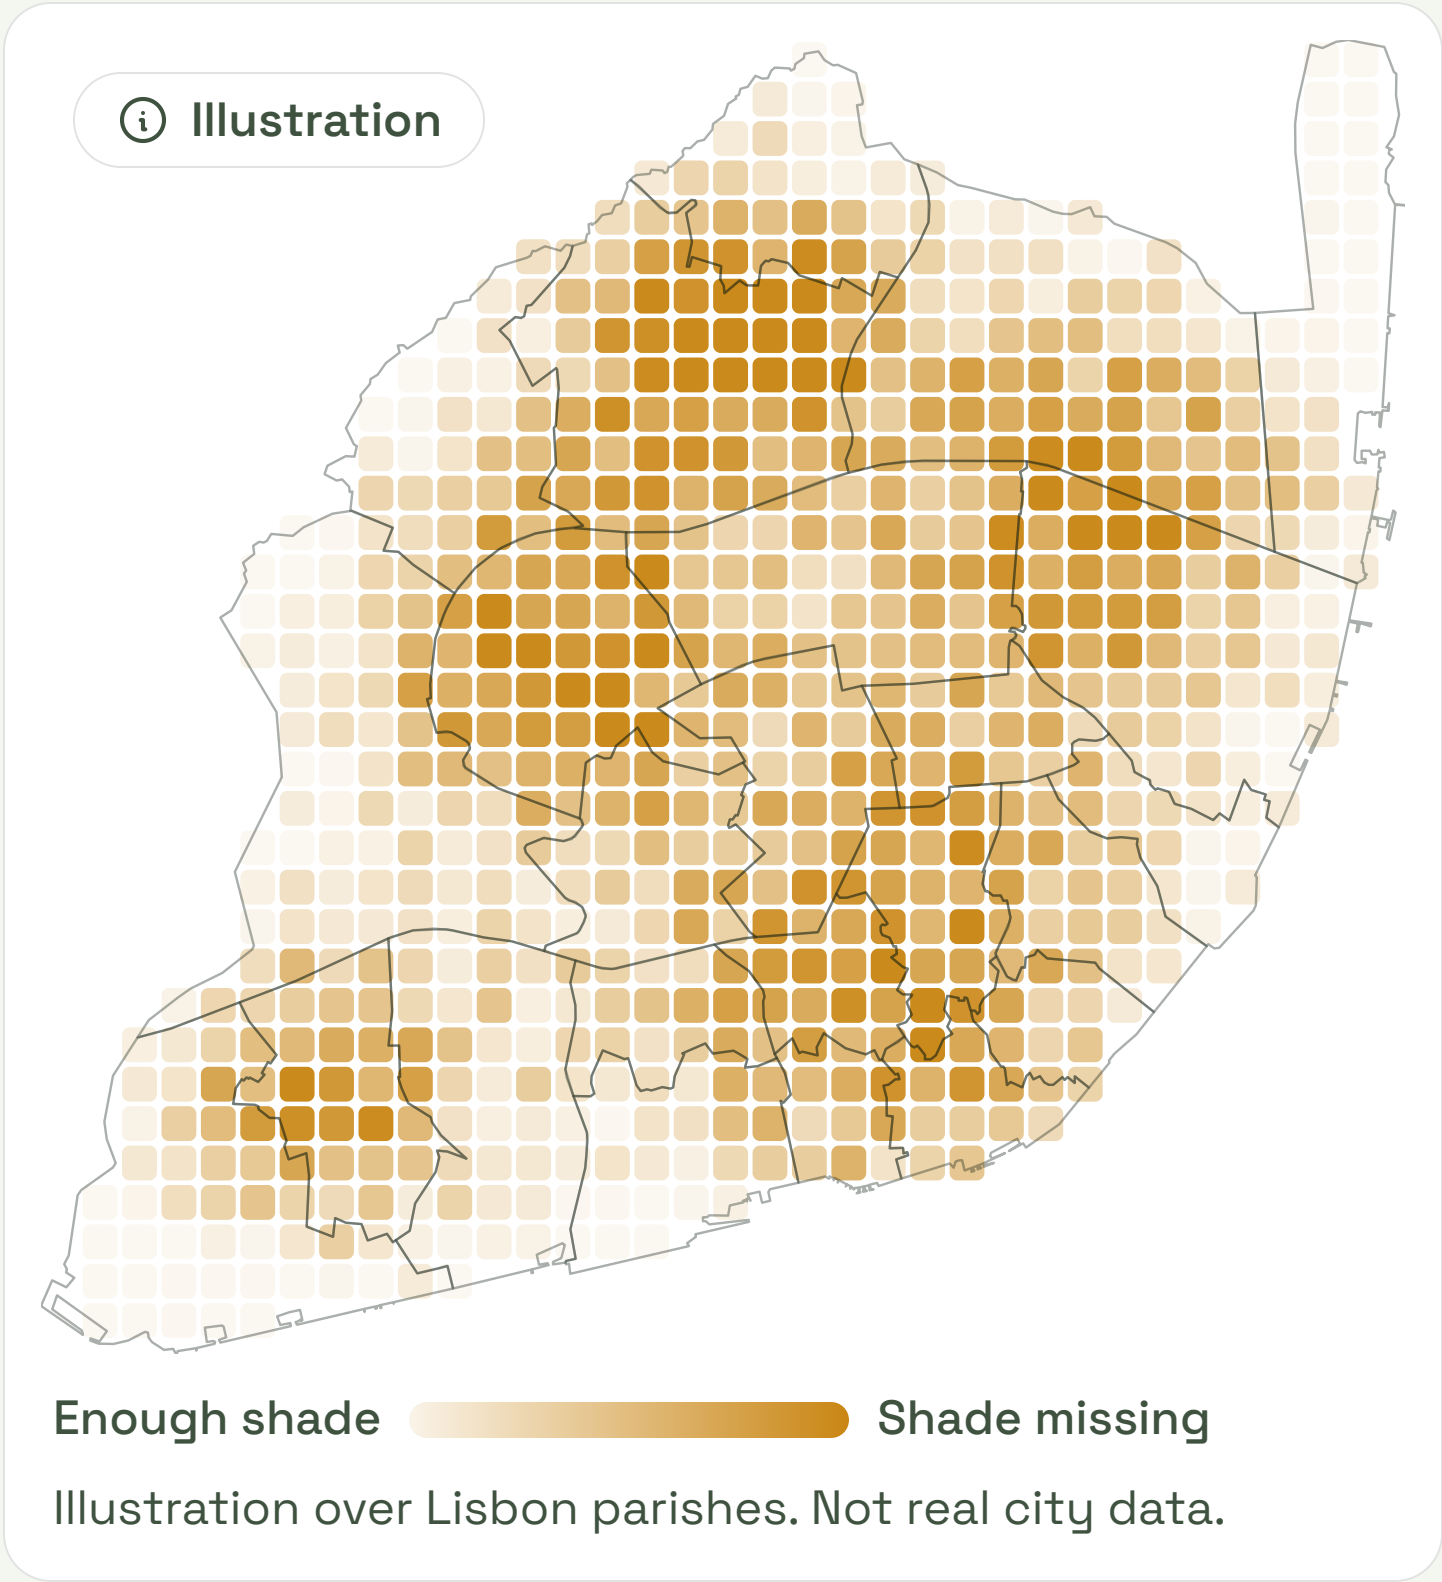

- 📍 Cool-path share, and how it shifts on heatwave days
- ☀️ Shade and heat stress on the streets people walk
- 🕒 Walks by parish and hour of the day
- 💧 Walks far from water, green space, or bike share
- 👥 Aggregates only: groups of 15 or more, no raw traces
